PRESS RELEASE

CCARC Celebrates 10 Years In Their Fabulous Facility!

950 Slater Road, New Britain

CCARC has been around since 1952, but on Thursday, July 24th from 4:00p.m. to 6:00p.m., they will celebrate 10 years at their 950 Slater Road location. The building is a marvel to behold and was designed specifically to provide personalized services for people with disabilities. Originally, the property was a pig farm. There were very old stone walls that ran the perimeter. That stone is echoed today in the galleria (main hallway) that runs the length of the building. Design features include movable walls and furniture on wheels. This along with the facts that the east side of the building is colored green and the west side is colored blue help lend to the building's ease of use.

Special thanks go out to the builders – Enterprise Builders and architects – Kaestle Boos Associates who are also sponsoring the reception. CCARC continues to be grateful to everyone that contributed to the capital campaign – all those names are featured on a “Wall of Honor” at the reception desk. Comments that are heard about the building often are how warm, welcoming, open and accessible the facility is. The public is welcome to join CCARC as they look forward to next decade of building use!
